SERVICE FLAG SERVICE

Patriotic Celebration by Holy Family Church

Last Sunday at 4:15 the Holy Family Church of Glendale held a patriotic service for their Service Flag, containing 22 stars—boys who have gone from this parish. The procession from the Holy Family Church was led by two old soldiers playing the fife and drum. Next in line came the White Star Patrol of the Elks Lodge, followed by Father O'Neill, and on one side of him was a soldier boy and on the other a sailor boy—these two boys being of Glendale.

Our Flag came next, being carried by four little girls, and then came the Service Flag, carried by boys and girls. Members of the parish followed, some walking and some in autos.

The service was opened by Mr. Doll. Father O'Neill led those assembled in prayer, with an impressive plea to the Almighty God for divine help for our President and for our Soldier and Sailor Boys. The audience and those on the platform then joined in singing "America." Mr. John S. McGroarty, a member of this parish, was then made chairman of the meeting. In a few well-chosen words, Mr. McGroarty spoke to the gathering and then introduced Mr. Gavin, who is in the Government Service. Mr. Gavin's speech was very patriotic, and struck a responsive chord in the hearts of his friends.

Miss Viola Yorba sang with much feeling "Joan of Arc." which was very well received—this day being to the French nation what the 4th of July is to us.

Hon. Paul J. McCormick was then

MRS. SHAW NEEDS HELPERS

Tropico Red Cross Salvage Department to be Pushed

Mrs. Hartley Shaw has taken charge of the Salvage Department of the Tropico District Red Cross auxiliary and sends out an urgent call for help. It has long since been demonstrated in many chapters that the Salvage Department can be made a source of considerable revenue, and Mrs. Shaw proposes to work her territory to the limit provided she can get the necessary help. That of course is a foregone conclusion as the loyal workers in this part of the city are legion. Headquarters have been established at 219 South San Fernando road. Those who are willing to work or will offer the use of their autos for collecting salvage are asked to communicate with Mrs. Shaw.

introduced by the chairman. Judge McCormick, who is very well known in Glendale, made an impressive talk. He told very feelingly the story of the French struggle for liberty and the history of "Bastille Day," which has been celebrated throughout America this year in sympathetic friendship and responsive reciprocation for the French observance of July 4th. The history of early French aid succor to the cause of Liberty in the United States was also emphasized with the story of Lafayette, who is as greatly beloved in this country as is Washington in France, where his picture is universally seen throughout the homes of the land.

The close of the ceremony was the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Only one more week to register or declare your party affiliation, if you want to vote at the August Primary.

Of course you want to vote at the August Primary. Why let some one else have all the say as to whose names appear on the ballot next November.

HAVE YOU REGISTERED IN 1918?

If not, get busy, and hunt up any one of the different registration deputies, and put yourself in "good standing" on the big book that contains the names of Los Angeles County's qualified voters.

WILL YOU VOTE AT THE PRIMARY AUGUST 27TH?

You may want to, but if, when you registered, you declined to state what party you belonged to, or affiliated with, you can not do so.

Only those who stated their party affiliations can vote, except for independent candidates, at the August primary, which nominates, and in some cases may elect the candidates.

You can vote next November, no matter how you registered, but you will have to vote for candidates whom somebody else placed in nomination.

If you did not give your "party affiliation" when you registered, it is not too late yet to correct your mistake. Go before any of the Registration Deputies and sign the necessary statement, and you will then be in a position to vote on August 27th and express your preference as to whom the candidates at the November election shall be.

LOT CLEANING ORDINANCE

Notices Have Been Posted. City Will Clean Lots if Owner Does Not

Notice to destroy weeds have been posted on 2889 lots in Glendale, according to a report submitted to the Board of Trustees by T. W. Watson, City Manager. The lots aggregate 660 acres of land, practically all the unused land in Glendale, with the exception of canyons, mountains and large tracts of acreage.

The report was compiled from data collected in the lot cleaning.

"There are 3244 parkways that are reported as weedy. If these parkways were lined out on one side of a continuous roadway one could travel for thirty miles and see weeds.

"Of the 3522 houses in the city of Glendale, not including Verdugo canyon district, 3343 are occupied; the empty houses number 179.

"There are 2338 lots on which miscellaneous garden truck is growing; 695 lots are devoted to growing potatoes, 216 lots to beans, 383 lots to corn, 347 lots to forage; 1850 lots have more or less fruit growing on them, part of which is very much neglected.

"There are 421 lots upon which grape vines are existing with apparently no care whatsoever.

"There are sixty-two lots which have been cleaned, but have not been cultivated."

In the meantime, the owner has a perfect right to clean up his lot himself, but if the city cleans it he is charged up with the actual time it took the laborers to do it, and it will be added to the first installment of taxes and collected in the same manner.

Very few vacant lots escaped the eagle eye of the inspector this year, as the "Notice to Remove Weeds" is met with on every hand.

PLENTY OF CANDIDATES

There seems to be no dearth of candidates in the political field. Up to date, there are four in this, the 61st Assembly district, who would be willing to represent us at Sacramento during the coming legislative session, viz. P. S. McNutt, who came so near receiving the nomination two years ago, Dr. Jessie Russell, Glendale's noted woman politician, Arthur J. Lindley, of the "California Dry" Association, and last but not least, John Robert White, who is put forward as the Business Men's candidate. All are strong candidates, and only the counting of the ballots on the 27th of August will name the winner.

There are four contestants for Congressman Randall's seat in the House of Representatives at Washington, and doubtless each thinks he has a "good show." In many Congressional districts, the different political parties are lining up and indorsing the present incumbent, believing that the man who has been bearing the burdens and who knows the situation should be allowed to complete the work of "winning the world for democracy" which has been so well begun. But the politicians in this district seemed to think differently, and we are to have the usual contest, which in these conservative times might have better been eliminated.

According to the ordinance, the owner is given two weeks after the notice is posted in which to "remove the weeds," then if not done, it is so reported, and the street department and its workers are instructed to clean up the lot or lots in question. It is needless to note that they can't all be cleaned at once, so they commence in the northwest section, then go to the northeast, working down towards the Tropica section, which will come last.

England Preserves Without Sugar by Pulping Fruit

Every housekeeper is anxious to build up safe reserves of fruit and vegetables for winter, and a good provider takes justifiable pride in well-filled shelves. To such women the 25 pound allotment of sugar, or even a more generous allowance for canning, will not provide a safe margin unless there is a careful allocation—so much sugar for cherries, and so much for peaches—and this program backed up with generous supplies canned without sugar.

England has adopted a method of preserving fruit without sugar, known as "pulping," that is employed both commercially and in the homes. This method is economical of jars, as no water is used in canning the fruit.

The method, according to the Bulletin of the Royal Horticultural Society, is as follows: Pack sterilized jars full of fruit, add no water, place rubbers and caps in position, and fill pan with water up to the shoulders of the bottles. Place pan on fire and bring water to the simmering point and keep it at this point half an hour. Remove bottles and fill them one from the other, replace rubbers and caps, and put the bottles back in the pan and bring them up to the simmering point again for another five minutes. Take them out one at a time and screw down the tops. Invert to cool and test the joints. Wrap in paper to prevent bleaching and store in a dry, cool place.

Cooking the fruit before bottling is a simple method of pulping, but the fruit will be darker than if the

How America Stands on Sugar

"How do we stand on sugar?" The question must be answered every day for the next six months by every consumer.

In answer to a similar query a member of the English Parliament said, "There is no prospect of any improvement in the national stocks of sugar so long as the war continues."

There is no such finality about the American sugar situation, but this calm acceptance of facts goes a long way in solving war problems. America, England, France and Italy depend mainly on Cuba for sugar. This means that so long as the war continues it is likely that the Allies will be on a meager sugar ration and America on a short allowance.

An improvement in shipping conditions would of course relieve the situation but distribution from now until the new crop comes in must be based on the sugar in sight and not on probable supplies. Facing the facts, the Food Administration has restricted the allowance of sugar in less essential food products in order to maintain a monthly ration of three pounds to consumers and provide sugar for both commercial and home canning.

In the plan of distribution which was put in force July 1, manufacturers of candy, soft drinks, tobacco, wine and such less essential products, were cut to 50 per cent of normal requirements. Ice cream makers will be allowed 75 per cent and canners of fruits and vegetables 100 per cent. No sugar can be sold to manufacturers, to retail merchants or to proprietors of eating places except on certificate from the local Food Administrator indicating the quantity that may be bought.

The householder is on honor to ration his family to three pounds a month per person and is urged to co-operate with the Government in a fair distribution of sugar supplies. If the sugar is available, home canners can obtain more than the 25-pound allowance for canning on approval of local administrators.

With the hearty co-operation of the public the Food Administration expects to avoid any serious scarcity of sugar for home consumption. The situation calls for a cheerful acceptance of facts and an all-round reciprocity on sugar—reciprocity between nations, between consumers and manufacturers, and between the American public and the Food Administration. Common sense and reciprocity all around will bring us to the end of the year without an embarrassing shortage.

Canning Fruits Without Sugar

By DIVISION OF VITICULTURE, UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA

The sugar used in canning or bottling fruit is for the purpose of improving the flavor and is not necessary for preservation.

Fruit of any kind suitable for canning may be preserved without any sugar. When the fruit is consumed, the sugar can be added exactly as is done with fresh fruit. If the fruit when canned is thoroughly ripe it may be consumed without this addition of sugar and is sweet enough for many tastes.

The ordinary methods of home canning are used. These are the "cold pack" and "hot pack" methods.

Above method is followed. This method is as follows: Place fruit over a gentle heat until enough moisture comes out to prevent burning, then increase the heat until the fruit boils. Boil an hour, stirring all the time, and can, following usual methods of sterilizing. In putting up apples a little water will have to be added to the fruit to prevent burning.

Pulped fruit can be used for jam, stewed fruit, puddings and pies. The English housewife who has to be very careful of sugar makes up pulp into jam one jar at a time, allowing half a pint of sugar to a pint of fruit. This does not make so sweet a jam as the usual quantity of sugar, but as this English woman writes, "It is quite good enough and in these days jam of any kind is almost a luxury."

Sugarless Recipes

DARK LOAF CAKE

½ cup sugar
1 cup rice
¾ cup syrup
¾ cup sour milk
1 teaspoon soda, dissolved in milk
2 tablespoons chocolate, dissolved in hot water
1 cup raisins
1½ cups barley flour
1½ cups purified rice bran
½ teaspoon each of cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves

Bake in a loaf 45 minutes. Put in slow oven and increase heat after 20 minutes.

SPICE CAKE

½ cup fat
1½ cups syrup
3 eggs
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon ginger
6 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon allspice
1 cup rice flour
1 cup buckwheat
Cream the fat and egg yolks. Add the syrup and mix well. Add alternately the liquid, and the dry ingredients sifted together. Add the flavoring and fold in the well beaten whites of the eggs. Bake for one hour in a moderate oven.

For the former the fruit is washed, peeled, pitted or cored as needed and packed tight in clean, scalded cans or jars. Water is then added, boiling in the case of cans, and as hot as possible without cracking the glass in the case of jars. Scalded caps or covers and rubbers are then put in place loosely and the filled cans heated in a vessel of boiling water for twenty to forty minutes. An ordinary wash boiler furnished with a wire screen or a wooden grating on which to place the jars is suitable for this purpose. The boiler should contain enough water to rise about half-way up the sides of the jars.

While still at the boiling temperature the jars or cans are removed, sealed and placed to cool, lying horizontally or upside down.

For the "hot pack" method the prepared fruit is placed in a large pot on the stove with a little water to prevent burning. After heating to the boiling point and cooking until the fruit is tender and some of the juice has exuded, it is poured into the cans or heated jars by means of a perforated or wire ladle and a wide funnel. Sufficient juice from the pot is then added just to cover the fruit and the cans or jars sealed. These are then heated in the boiler for about twenty minutes. For a second batch of the same fruit the juice remaining in the pot should be used instead of water for the preliminary cooking.

With some fruits there will be an excess of juice. This can be used in the canning of other kinds of fruit or for making blended jams, marmalades or jellies. In cases where there is not sufficient juice to cover the fruit when placed in the jars sufficient hot water may be added for this purpose.

The riper the fruit, providing it is sound, the more sugar, flavor, and nutrient it contains.

CHOCOLATE CORNSTARCH PUDDING

2 cups milk
3 tablespoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons corn syrup
1 square chocolate
Melt the chocolate over hot water. Scald 1½ cups of milk, and add the corn syrup. Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch together, and stir in the cold milk to make a smooth mixture. Gradually add this to the scalded milk, and then add all the liquid to the melted chocolate, stirring constantly. Cook 20 minutes in a double boiler, stirring until thickened, add vanilla, pour into molds which have been dipped into cold water. Chill.

COCOA

4 tablespoons cocoa
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons corn syrup
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups boiling water
2 cups scalded milk
¾ teaspoon vanilla
Mix together the cocoa, cornstarch, salt and sugar. Add the boiling water and cook for 15 minutes, stirring constantly. Add syrup, scalded milk and flavoring. Beat with a Dover egg beater before serving.

COCOANUT AND MARMALADE JELLY

2½ tablespoons gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 cup hot milk
½ cup cold milk
¼ cup peach, plum, orange or other marmalade
1 cup canned cocoanut
Corn syrup
Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes; then dissolve it in the hot milk. If the milk curdles, beat it smooth with an egg beater. Add the marmalade. Add sufficient corn syrup to the milk drained from the cocoanut to make 1 cup. Add this to the hot milk. Stir the mixture well and when it is cold, add the cocoanut and the cold milk. Pour it into a mold, and chill. The marmalade may be used to garnish the pudding instead of being molded into it.

PEANUT HONEY CANDY

1 cup butter
2 cups honey
1 cup boiling water
Few grains bicarbonate of soda
1 cup shelled peanuts
Method
Chop the peanuts fine and spread over bottom of greased pan. Mix the other ingredients and cook to "hard ball" stage and pour over the peanuts; let partially cool; cut in strips. Roll and cut crosswise.

HARRY M. MILLER

A Brief Outline of Our Justice of the Peace

Harry M. Miller, Justice of the Peace for Burbank Township, is a candidate for reelection. Mr. Miller was born in Philadelphia, Penn., in the year of 1877. He received a grammar school education. When he was 13 years of age his parents moved to Burlington, Wisconsin, on a farm, where he assisted his father farming. When he became 21 years old he enlisted in the United States Cavalry at Chicago, Ill., and served three years in the Spanish-American War in the Philippine Islands. After the war he was employed at Fort Warden at Port Townsend, Wash., as carpenter for the U. S. Government. In 1905 he first came to Glendale, and for a time worked at his trade, that of a carpenter. Two years later he was elected City Marshal of Glendale, the City at that time having a population of little more than 3,000. As the City grew in population, the Police Department was increased, and Mr. Miller continued on the force, gaining much knowledge and experience that has been of inestimable benefit to him. He was elected City Marshal three terms in succession and still continued to serve the city in the Police Department until he resigned, being elected to the office of Justice of the Peace of Burbank Township in the year of 1914.

During his years of service to the City of Glendale, Mr. Miller has won a reputation for fairness, devotion to duty, and persistence in bringing wrongdoers to justice that few officers enjoy. He succeeded in 1914 in bringing to justice the Eagle Rock Bank Robber, the La Canada Post Office Robber, the uncovering of two "blind pigs"—one drug store and a peddler's wagon, and the nearly fatal shooting of a burglar who resisted arrest.

Mr. Miller's experience as City Marshal for six years, nine months, and as Justice of Burbank Township since 1914, gives him the knowledge and tact needed, especially in the handling of Juvenile cases, children who have committed their first offenses. His intention is to arbitrate cases whenever possible, without bringing them into court, thus saving costs, and thereby helping our government and President to accomplish a successful victory in our present crisis. Mr. Miller has made promises as to what he will do if elected. He will not forget that he is the servant of the people. He will maintain a court room in Glendale, and as the township includes three cities and three towns, he agrees to hold court at any of these places when requested to do so. His intention is to continue his law studies by attending night school at the U. S. C., and will hold himself in readiness at any time to serve his constituents in any way possible. He further promises to decide every case on its merits alone, irrespective of the persons involved. Even-handed justice will be his motto. He has done his duty as he sees it.

Mr. Miller has a wife and one son eight and one-half years old, and is the owner of considerable property, including his home at 1022 West Seventh Street, Glendale. He is forty years of age.

Do you believe that faithful public service merits public approval? Judge Harry M. Miller stands squarely on his record. Re-elect him at the primaries August 27th, 1918.

"Food will win the war!" Whose food—German or American? The world awaits your answer.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis R. Coole and baby, Mary Lou, of Exeter, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Craig, on West Garfield avenue.

A very interested number of the ladies attended the Tropico Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church at the home of Mrs. Blythe, 126 East 10th street. Mrs. Ella Shaw Melody, returned missionary from Egypt, gave a most inspiring Bible reading. Treasurer reported having sent $7.80 dues for the 3rd quarter and $25 for Bible Woman's support. Dr. Corey gave an interesting resume of the closing chapters of the Study Book. Mrs. Melody made one of the most interesting addresses on Egypt, its people, customs and the Mohammedans. Delicious refreshments were served, and a social hour enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. West with Dr. Soper as speaker.

Miss Sue Renglar, who has rented her home at 126 Garfield avenue, moved to Los Angeles this week.

Robert Taylor and Hamilton Crawford went to Santa Monica Wednesday and spent the day fishing.

Word has been received that Dwight Stephenson and his fellow soldiers have been transferred to a Kentucky point, thus taking another move on their journey "over there."

Mrs. J. C. Fox, of East Palmer, has as her guest, her mother, Mrs. Paige, of Berkeley. Her sister, who had been visiting here, returned to her home at Berkeley last week.

Dr. H. G. Martin, formerly in business here, has moved back to Glendale and is now living on West Seventh Street. For the past three years he has been at Van Nuys.

Mr. Frank Echols, of the firm of Roberts & Echols, druggists, accompanied by his wife, left on Monday for Coachella for a short time. They have a ranch at that place which is being improved.

W. J. Hibbert entertained a party of friends Monday evening at the Hibbert home on Brand boulevard with a demonstration of numerous pieces of magical apparatus of which Mr. Hibbert is the originator and maker.

During the absence of Mr. Claude Robinson and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, who are temporarily located at Littlelands, the Miller home on West Acacia avenue is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Hearn Robinson and son Teddy.

For the first time in a number of years, the National Encampment of the G. A. R. is to be held on the Pacific Coast. Among those who expect to attend the encampment, which will be held at Portland, Oregon, in August, are Maj. J. J. Weiler and Past Commander and Mrs. Geo. W. Sanford, of Sycamore Canyon, Mr. and Mrs. Houdyshel, of Glendale, and Mr. and Mrs. James Maxwell, of W. Park avenue.

MATED IN HEAVEN

HOPE is Born of DESIRE and FAITH

If Bridegroom and Bride be weak; then puny is Hope, the Child.

Stronger Desire and weaker Faith give to Hope the faint heart that wins not fair lady; or reaches not womanly winning.

Weaker Sire with stronger Dame breed the Hope not likely to "Try, Try Again;" and so "Lose the Name of Action."

But when, in the Heaven of the Soul, is wed Mighty Longing with Immortal Faith—then is incarnated HOPE, THE CONQUEROR.

Then will Young Ambition climb his Little Ladder.

Then may Vaulting Ambition even o'er-leap Itself.

But deeds of Derring-Do are Done. Of no Child of Such Mating was it said:

"Hope for a season bade the world FAREWELL."

And Freedom would not have shrieked if many a Kosciusko fell.

The WOMEN of Greater Glendale have writ Large on the Roll of Patriotic Achievement; but nowhere more worthily than for the P.-T. A. ## The Confessions of a German Deserter

Written by a Prussian Officer

Ravaging and Pillaging of Belgium

Copyright by Detroit Free Press

Several hundred prisoners were corralled in the market place. Several French shells struck the prisoners but they were obliged to remain where they were. An officer of my company, Lieut. A. R. Neesen, remarked that no harm was done as the prisoners knew at least how their own ammunition tasted.

Toward one o'clock the battle south of Sommepey reached its climax. When the Germans advanced to make storming attacks on all points the French gave up their positions and retired in the direction of Sulppes. Whether our company was no longer considered fit to fight or whether we were not needed any longer I do not know. We received orders to go into quarters. But neither a barn nor a stable could be found so that nothing remained but to camp in the open. The houses were all filled with wounded. Citizens of the town, who had not fled were all gathered in a large barn. Their houses were mostly destroyed so that they had to make use of what shelter was offered them. There was one exception to this arrangement and that was a very old little motherly woman sitting, bitterly crying, by the debris of her late home and nobody could induce her to leave.

In the barn, which served as a shelter to the civilians, were thrown together men and women, youths, children and old men. Many were wounded by shell splinters and cartridges and others had suffered burns. Everywhere was the most terrible misery; sick mothers and half-starved infants for whom there was no milk were obliged to perish here; old people died from the excitement and fright of the previous few days and last of all men and women in the prime of life slowly died from wounds because there was nobody to care for them.

A company of Hessian reserves, every one a veteran, passed with bowed heads and tired feet. They must have had a very long march. Their officers tried to make them move more lively. They ordered that a song be sung but the Hessians were not in the mood.

"Will you sing, you pigs?" cried an officer and the pitiful-looking "pigs" tried to obey this order. Faintly sounded from the ranks of the overtired men: "Deutschland, Deutschland Ueber Alles, Ueber Alles in Der Welt." Despite their broken strength, their tired feet, disgusted and resentful, these men sang their symphony of super-Germanism.

Several comrades who like myself had watched this troop pass came to me and said, "Let us go to the camp and try to sleep so that we might forget all this."

We were hungry and on the way home caught several chickens. We ate them half-raw and then laid down in the open and slept until four o'clock in the morning when we had to be ready to march.

Our destination on this day was Sulppes. Before the march started the following army order was read:

"Soldiers, his majesty the emperor, our supreme war lord, thanks the soldiers of the Fourth army and sends to them his full appreciation. You have saved our beloved Germany from the invasion of hostile hordes. We will not rest until the last enemy lies on the ground and before the leaves fall from the trees we shall return home victorious. The enemy is in full retreat and the Almighty will bless our arms further."

After this talk we gave three cheers, something which had become routine for us. And then we resumed our march. We now had plenty of time and opportunity to discuss the gratitude expressed by the supreme war lord. We could not make out just what fatherland we had to defend so far in France. One of the soldiers expressed the opinion that the Lord had blessed our arms, to which another replied: "A religious man repeating such silly sentiments is guilty of sacrilege, if he speaks seriously."

Everywhere, on the march to Sulppes, in the fields and in the ditches, lay dead soldiers, most of them with hideous-looking open wounds. Thousands of huge flies swarmed on the corpses, partly decomposed, and giving off a fearful stench. Among these corpses, unsheltered under a blazing sun, were encamped wretched fugitives, because they were forbidden the use of the roads while the armies needed them, which was practically all the time.

In the evening, after a long march, we reached the town of Sulppes. Here our captain told us we would find numerous frank-tireurs. We were ordered to bivouac, instead of being assigned quarters, and all going into the village were obliged to take guns and cartridges with them. After a brief rest we entered the village in search of food. Dead civilians lay in the middle of the streets. They were citizens of the village. We could not learn the reason for their having been shot. The only answer to our questions was a shrug of the shoulder.

The village itself had not suffered to any noticeable degree as far as destruction of buildings was concerned, but never in the course of the war had I seen a more complete job of plundering than had been done in Sulppes. That we had to live and eat is true, and as the inhabitants and merchants had flown there was no opportunity to pay for our necessities. Therefore we simply entered a store, put on stockings, laundry, and left the old things, then went to another place, took whatever food looked good to us, and then proceeded to a wine cellar, there to seize as much as our hearts desired. The men of the ammunition column, located in the village as well as the sanitary soldiers and cavalry by the hundreds, searched the houses and took whatever they liked best. The finest and largest business places in Suippes served a very large rural district surrounding and therefore were stocked up on almost everything. Within a short time these places had been cleaned out. The munition drivers and train columns carried away old pieces of silk, ladies' dresses, linens, shoes, dress goods and every other article imaginable, and stored them away in their ammunition cases. They took children's and women's shoes, and everything else they could lay their hands upon, although many of these articles had to be thrown away shortly afterward. Later, when the field post was developed and gave regular service, many of these things were sent home.

A large chocolate factory was robbed completely, and chocolate and candy in heaps were trampled in the ground. Empty houses were broken into and wrecked, wine cellars cleaned out and windows smashed, the latter being a special pastime of the cavalrymen. As we had to pass the night in the open, we tried to find some quilts and entered a grocery store and a market place. The store was partly demolished, but the apartment upstairs was as yet intact with all the rooms locked. It was evident that a woman's hand had worked in this house, for everything was neat and cozy. But all this order was still surpassed by the arrangement in a large room, which apparently had been inhabited by a young woman. We were almost ashamed to enter the sanctuary. To our astonishment we saw hanging on the wall opposite the door a picture burned in wood and under it a German verse: "Honor the women, they weave a braid of heavenly roses in their earthly life." (Schiller). The owner apparently was a young bride, for in the wardrobe was a trousseau, tied with neat blue ribbons, carefully put away. All the wardrobe drawers lay open. Nothing was touched here. When we visited the same place the next morning, impelled by some impulse, we found everything in that house destroyed. Barbarians had gone through this home, and with bitter ruthlessness had devastated everything, with every evidence of having utterly cast off the ethics and standards of civilized races.

The entire trousseau had been torn from the drawers and thrown partly on the floor. Pictures, photographs, mirrors, everything was in pieces. The three of us who had entered the room clenched our fists with impotent wrath.

We received orders to remain in Suippes until further notice and the next day witnessed the return of many fugitives. They came in great throngs from the direction of Chalons-sur-Marne. They found instead of the peaceful homes they had left a wretched and deserted ruin. A furniture dealer returned to his store, as we stood in front of his house. He broke down when he viewed the remains of his enterprise. Everything had been taken away. We approached the man. He was a Jew and spoke German. When he calmed down a little he told us that his store had contained merchandise worth more than 8,000 francs.

"Had the soldiers only taken what they needed for themselves," he said, "I would be satisfied, for I did not expect anything else. But I never would have believed of the Germans that they would have destroyed everything."

Devastated Everything.

Not even a cup and saucer were left in this man's house. He had a wife and five children, but had no idea of what had become of them. And there were many more like him.

END YOUR FIELD GLASSES, SPY-GLASSES OR TELESCOPES TO WASHINGTON TO BE 'EYES' FOR THE FLEET

The Navy needs these "eyes" to derive the submarine of its sting and it has requested the California State Council of Defense to help it obtain them. Commissioning hundreds of new ships for naval service has created a demand for observation glasses far in excess of the present American output. The only way to insure an adequate supply while the manufacturers of lenses are speeding up production is by appealing to the patriotism of private owners.

The Government pays a nominal fee of $1.00 for each glass accepted and the donor is further rewarded by knowing that his patriotic contribution may be the means of saving thousands of troops in transport and also of saving much-needed shipping from destruction.

Old, scuffed telescopes or field glasses may possess first class lenses, so don't be chary about forwarding them regardless of appearance.

Ship direct by mail or express to Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C. Tie a tag with your name and address to each instrument.

SEVEN POUNDS LIMIT TO PACKAGES FOR SOLDIERS

The attention of persons mailing packages to soldiers is called by Postmaster Harrington Brown to a ruling of the Postoffice Department limiting the weight of parcels for troops overseas to seven pounds. Senders are also warned against packing articles in wooden boxes.

Senders are requested to keep in mind the fact that the soldier in the camp in America to whom a package is addressed may be sent overseas before the parcel reaches him. In that event the package must stand a long sea trip, and should be packed very carefully even when directed only to the local camp.

The department advises strong corrugated cardboard well wrapped in paper or sacking or cloth of some kind.

Food will win the war—Don't waste
